Happy Friday!

A much cooler week for us in Year 4 which has been a huge relief!

This week, we have been budding authors as we continue to build the opening to our Iron Man narrative piece. The children have been sharing their ideas and celebrating each other's work.

We returned to the pool as the children enjoyed their first swim of the term.

We continue to learn about solids, liquids and gases - the children even became particles to role play the different matters!

In Art, we have been researching portrait artists and focussing on at least one, whose work resonates with us, using them as inspiration towards a final piece.

Wishing you all a lovely weekend!

A group of solid particles!
