Learning Journey

We have had a great week learning all about The Gingerbread Man and we even go to do some baking at the end of the week! The children had lots of fun following instructions and using tools to make and decorate their own gingerbread men. Let's hope they don't try and run away (like in the story).

In English we have been working on instructions and sequencing instructions in the correct order. We talked about why we need instructions and recipes.

In Computing, the children used different freehand paint tools on a laptop to create a picture of their friend. These were great!

Thank you to those who have already sent in Nativity costumes, this is just a reminder that they need to be in the end of next week. You can bring them in a named bag or on a hanger. Also please continue to practise your child's lines with them at home if they do have some.

Star Learner

A huge well done to Oscar
A for learning all of your
Nativity lines already!

In DT we have started exploring structures and buildings. Over the next few weeks children will design and build an enclosure for a farm animal. If you have any cardboard or junk modelling at home, please could you start sending it in over the next few weeks?

Thank you.
