Issue 23

Friday 22nd March

What a busy and wonderful week. We had parents in school, rock concerts and Zoom calls with authors and illustrators. We now have 3.5 days left of the spring term, we certainly all need the break to rest and relax with our families.

Author Zoom call

This week we were lucky enough to have a Zoom call with A.M. Dassu and Junissa Bianda, the author and illustrator of 'Can you find my Eid presents?' The author read us the story and the illustrator taught us how to draw the character from the story.

Family learning week

Thank you to everyone who attended family learning this week. I hope you found it enjoyable and gained an insight in to our lovely classroom.

Toy Thursday

Next week is our last week before we break up for Easter. The children are allowed to bring in a toy or game to share. Please ensure that the game or toy is well labelled. Please don't send in any electronic gaming devices.

This is a great time for children to play games together, learn new skills and share games that they enjoy at home. Whilst I am aware that many children like to bring in cuddly toys to share, try to encourage a game or toy where they can actually interact with others. Cuddly toys always get shown off for the first 10 minutes and then get thrown to the side.
