Honesty, Passion, Respect &
Determination

Happy Friday!

In maths this week, children completed an end of unit assessment as our Place Value focus ended. We have now moved onto addition and subtraction. This week we have been revisiting how to add together two 4-digit numbers without an exchange and with one exchange.

In English, we used an incredible range of vocabulary to describe what the Iron Man saw as he entered the sea. Some of the expanded noun phrases created by the children were fabulous!

Another experiment in science this week! Children have been learning all about evaporation and what causes the change of state from liquid to gas. We explored this by hanging wet cloth in various places around the school and observing how long they took to dry.

Children took ownership of their own still-life composition in art this week, choosing items to sketch and arranging them themselves. Photos were then taken to allow children to paint from these next week - an art genre known as photorealism.

We became set designers this week, sketching a stage setting from a chosen part of the Alice in Wonderland story. We learnt that a set-designer works closely with the director and choreographer of a ballet to understand their vision and help bring it to life.

In PSHE, we learnt about self-esteem and how this looks, reflecting on our own achievements and how they make us feel.

Important Messages

School trip

As we are not expected to return to school until approx 5.30pm, please can you provide a snack for your child to eat on our return journey. Thank you.

TT Rockstars

The expectation is that children log on and practise at least 3 times a week. If you have any issues logging into TT Rockstars at home, please let me know.
