Happy Friday!

In maths we are coming to the end of our unit on addition and subtraction. Our focus has been on subtraction with more than one exchange this week and how we can subtract more efficiently.

In science, children learnt about the water cycle and how the changes of state we have been learning about all term, play their part in this important process. At home, prompt the children to let you know if they can see condensation happening around them!

In history, the children learned how England became a Christian nation, following the conversion from Paganism to Christianity during the Anglo-Saxon period. We were introduced to Augustine, who brought the Christian message over to our shores on behalf of Pope Gregory.

In computing this week, we reflected on who owns content we see online and how this affects how we can use it.

In English, children are coming to the end of their writing work inspired by The Iron Man. We will spend next week editing and writing our work up in our neatest handwriting!

In French this week, we learnt vocabulary for things we might find in our bags, such as stationary items and wrote sentences featuring these.

Wishing you all a lovely weekend!

Miss Hale
