

Highlights of the Week

This week we have been doing another round of practice Sats tests. I'm really pleased to say that I was once again incredibly impressed with the maturity of the class. They all focused well and kept silent for the hour (or whatever was needed) and worked to the best of their ability. We had a look at one of the papers today and I reminded them that these tests are to help me to know what to teach them next term and no one should be worrying about them. We also noticed that a lot of the questions we know the Maths for so now it's a case of getting used to the way the question is worded. An example of this is with the number 3,576,219 - the value of the 5th digit is 70,000 but the digit in the ten thousands place is 7.

PSHE:

We looked at the importance of exercise and sleep and how these are linked. We discussed bedtime routines and how Scientists have proven that people sleep better if they have had an hour off from screens before going to sleep. We tried a sleep meditation and all felt very dozy!

NEXT WEEK

Next week is Bike Ability once again. We are having a practice run through of the Carol Concert on Thursday morning which the children can't miss so the Bike Training will be every morning except Thursday.

Geography:

In Geography we have continued to think about food and where it comes from. We are looking at different climates around the world and thinking about how this affects the food that can be grown.

Science:

In Science we are studying Light. We know it travels in straight lines and have looked at the role of different parts of the eye which enable us to see. We have learnt that different colours have different wave lengths and as light passes through different mediums these can alter for example producing a rainbow.
