Happy Friday!

We are well and truly into the Christmas swing of things here at Ongar! The carol concert practise at St Paul's sounded fabulous... If you're able to make it next week, you're in for a real treat!

We spent some time this week writing up our recounts in English, with a focus on ensuring our work is the neatest it can be.

In maths, we have been dividing numbers by 10 and 100 and recognising what is actually happening to numbers on a place value chart when this happens.

We continued to learn more about King Alfred in history this week and considered whether his achievements justify his moniker.

Children enjoyed playing a few small games in tag rugby, ensuring they were implementing all the learning from across the term in their play.

In RE, we were fortunate to host a Sikh from the local community who talked about what daily life is like for a Sikh and answer any questions the children had.

In science, we conducted an experiment to test the effect distance from a sound source has on volume. Our results didn't reflect our predictions which helped us reflect on the environment of our test and what might have skewed our results.

In DT, children used their knife skills to prepare vegetables before cooking up a storm in the kitchen and settling down to enjoy their very own vegetable soup.

Merry Christmas!!

With a very busy final week ahead, this will be the final learning letter of the year. I can't believe how quickly this term has flown! I want to take this opportunity to wish you all a very happy Christmas. I hope you're able to relax and enjoy some peaceful days together with your children, over the Christmas break.
