Happy Friday!

It was lovely to see so many of you at our class assembly this week. I think you'll all agree that the children were superstars and performed brilliantly. It can be incredibly daunting performing in front of an audience and I was so proud of all of them.

In maths this week, children have been learning how to add and subtract fractions. They have learnt how to subtract integers from mixed numbers as well as subtracting fractions from mixed numbers.

In English, children have finished, edited and written their biographies in their best handwriting. They have also been introduced to one of the key themes of our new text - recycling.

In computing, we analysed data to answer questions. We looked at data collected on a data logger which had been plotted on a graph to do this. We also looked at data which had been collected on a spreadsheet, exploring how we can use the sorting function to help find answers more quickly.

Gratitude was at the heart of our yoga session this week, and as we moved through the gratitude flow, we thought about one person we are grateful to have in our lives. We reflected on how the art of gratitude can bring positivity to every day.

In DT, children designed their electric light, with consideration given to who it is for and what purpose it will serve.

Wishing you all a weekend filled with sunshine!
Miss Hale
