Honesty, Passion, Respect &
Determination

Happy Friday everyone!

Our week at Ongar has seen our first glimpse of snow this season...The excitement in the classroom was off the charts!!

In maths, our learning has been based around the 3, 6, 9 and 7 times tables this week. Children have recognised the relationship between these tables and how that can help with trickier calculations.

In English, children wrote sentences featuring relative clauses introduced by relative pronouns.

We delved inside the ear in science this week, as part of our learning about how sounds are made. Children learned that vibrations travel through a medium and into our ear. We then looked at what then happens to result in us hearing sound.

Working in pairs, children have started to plan a podcast as part of our understanding around audio production in computing. This week, they imported sound effects and jingles into their recordings.

In history, we reflected on why Vikings were considered a superior fighting force, compared to the Anglo-Saxons.

Our DT unit this time will be planning, preparing and making soup. This week, we used playdoh to practice dicing vegetables.

Wishing you all a lovely (and hopefully not too chilly) weekend,

Miss Hale

Important Messages

With the weather turning very cold this week, please ensure your child is wearing a coat into school. Hats and gloves are also advised. Please name all items of clothing as the cloakrooms are very full at this time of year, especially on forest school days.

A reminder that children should come to school dressed in PE kits on Mondays and Wednesdays.
